THIS DOUGHBOY HIKES TEN MILES FOR DOUGHNUTS

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, July 23.—He was one of those quiet, likable sort of chaps who says little and does a lot. He never talked enough about himself so that you could know him, yet you liked him and trusted him because you couldn't help it.

He used to come in from the trenches during the day and do anything he could to be useful around the Salvation Army hut run by the McIntyre Sisters, of Mount Vernon, New York. He would stand watch at night and come back to help the girls in the daytime. They couldn't persuade him to sleep.

Older fellows came and worked and told their stories and got their words of cheer from the girls and went. But this chap was always on the job, ever working and never saying anything.

He disappeared.

Then his company moved and the girls missed their chief doughnut dipper. They often inquired what had happened to him. But no one knew anything about him, and they heard from him only through an occasional brief note from the trenches a few miles to the north.

One morning Miss Irene was rolling doughnut dough, and Miss Gladys was dipping them in the boiling grease, when the former chief doughnut dipper stumbled into the hut. He looked tired and footsore, and he was dusty.

"Gee, it's good to see you," he said after the girls had given a drink and fed him some doughnuts, which he ate silently.

They waited for his story, which he did not begin.

"Well, how are you?" the girls asked.

"All right, thanks," he smiled meekly.

"Where is your company?" they asked.

"Up the line in some woods."

"How far is it?"

"Bout ten miles."

"Did you walk all that way in the dust and sun?"

"Most of it. Some times I was in fields."

"Were you on watch last night?"

"Yes."

"Then you didn't have any sleep?"

"No."

"Why did you come clear over here then?"

"I wanted to see you."

"Just wanted to look."

"Well, we're glad to see you, surely. What can we do for you?"

"Just let me look at you—and—"

"And what?"

"And cook some doughnuts."

"All right, but you'd better lie down and sleep a while first."

"I don't want to lie down. It would be time wasted."

"Wasted? It's just what you need."

"No, it isn't what I need. I want to look at you."

Loved Ones at Home.

"I've got a wife and a little baby back home, and I love them. I like to be here because seeing you takes me back to them. This morning I knew I ought to sleep, but I just couldn't go over the top tonight without seeing you again. That's why I want to look at you and fry a few doughnuts for you. It takes me back to them," he finished with a far-away look in his face.

He worked around for a couple hours, saying practically nothing, but seemingly as satisfied as could be. Finally he looked at his watch, and said, "Guess I'll have to go. It's quite a walk back to the company."

Two Salvation Army girls did not sleep much that night, thinking of the "chief doughnut dipper," faithfully going over the top and of his wife and baby back in New England.

Next day about noon they were busy at work, when the "chief doughnut dipper" stumbled in the door. He was dirty and dusty and his face was worn, but his eyes sparkled brightly.

Come Up Smiling.

"Just thought I ought to come back and tell you I'm all right," he said, "I was afraid you'd be worried. My wife and baby would, anyway."

"You go out there under the tree and go to sleep," one of the girls ordered.

"All right, I will," he said, "I feel like sleeping. You don't think I'm crazy do you? I just had to see you. It took me back to them."

HAPPENINGS IN SOCIETY

Changes in the Personnel of the Diplomatic Corps. Summertime Activities of Society Folk.

SEVERAL changes which have taken place recently in the personnel of the diplomatic corps are of unusual interest to Washington society. The British embassy staff has been augmented by the arrival of a naval attaché, Capt. Arthur L. Snodgrass, and A. F. Musgrave, who is temporarily attached as secretary. The Hon. E. Campbell, who is also of the staff of temporary secretaries, has been joined by Mrs. Campbell; and the latest edition of the diplomatic list notes the departure of Malcolm Arnold Robertson, for several years first secretary of the embassy, who has been transferred to the British legation at Copenhagen. Mrs. Robertson, with her small son, Donald Struan Robertson, is at Hot Springs, Va., for the summer and will join her husband in Denmark in the autumn.

Angel Gandolfo Herrera, newly appointed attaché of the Argentine embassy, is among the recent arrivals in town and has taken an apartment at Rauscher's. There is also a new attaché of the Japanese embassy, Michio Kaku, who is established at 1110 N street, where the embassy offices are located.

A. R. Nordvall, who was in Washington some months ago as a member of the Swedish commission, returned to town a few weeks ago as special commissioner, and with Mme. Nordvall is established at 1325 Eighteenth street. The other members of the commission are Olof H. Lamm, shipping delegate, and Axel Selander, secretary.

The Cuban legation staff has two new members, Major Ernesto N. Tablo, military attaché, and Lieut. Jose Van der Gucht, naval attaché. The latter is accompanied by Mme. Van der Gucht. Dr. Alfonso Forcade y Jorin, secretary of the Cuban legation in Norway, who is temporarily attached to the legation here, and Mme. de Forcade have moved from the Logan Hotel to 1735 P street. Dr. Carlos de Zaldívar, attaché, has also changed his address, and is in Cambridge, Mass. Instead of in New York. The legation of Salvador now has a second secretary, Don Hector Herrera, who has recently arrived in this country; and Lieut. Prince Henri de Ligne is here temporarily attached to the Belgian legation. Dr. Conrad Jenny, temporary attaché of the legation of Switzerland, is now listed as absent.
